

somewhat difficult to get the rifles ashore, it was concluded to keep them on board and proceed to Kakaako and land them there later. Six or seven boxes of revolvers were, however, opened and their contents, amounting to several hundred, placed in sacks, taken ashore and buried. These were later distributed among the royalist patriots residing in Honolulu, or at least such is supposed to have been the case, for only three of the revolvers mentioned have been recovered from the parties arrested. One of them was found at Henry Bertelmann's place and is now worn by Chester Anthony Doyle, Marshal Hitchcock's special courier with the new famous red lantern.

When the revolvers had been duly landed and concealed, Charles Warren went aboard the schooner to act as pilot. The schooner, Waimanalo, was to transport the second batch of rifles, and the schooner, but this time failed to do for some reason or other, and the schooner put out to sea. Later the Waimanalo went in search of the schooner, and at one time the schooner was within some thirty miles of the shore, but after a lengthy cruise, the schooner was overtaken by the Waimanalo, and the rifles were landed. On Thursday evening, January 10, as is well known, an attempt was made to land the arms at Kakaako. Being informed in their design by the police, the Waimanalo, after receiving Robert Wilcox and some others of his command on board, made for the lee of Diamond Head and later landed her cargo, variously estimated at 200 stands of arms and a large quantity of ammunition, at Aiea, near the place near Waiālae.

MILITARY COMING TO TOWN.

All But Zeigler's Men Relieved Last Night.

There was a general calling in of the soldiery last night, and by 11 o'clock all the companies, except Zeigler's men, were in comfortable quarters within the city. Each company, as it entered the barracks, was greeted with cheers from their comrades. Lieutenant Coyne's men, tired and foot-sore though they were, whistled "Marching Through Georgia" as they came down Richards street. Soon after 10 o'clock Company A came in from Camp Smith, back of the Lunali Home, and were put on guard at the Judiciary Building; Companies B and C are in the drill-shed; Company D is guarding the Executive Building, camping in the yard in tents; Company E is in the usual quarters at the barracks; Company F will break camp and come into town this morning. Several of the volunteer companies will probably be dismissed this week.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Captain Davies was taken to the reef yesterday.

Thirty arrests were made yesterday on different charges.

Thirty-one men were transferred from the prison to the old barracks yesterday.

Cecil Brown had dinner at his home last night for the first time in a week.

About thirty natives were taken from the police station to the barracks yesterday afternoon, under charge of T. B. Murray and a squad of men.

Captain Camara's men fired several shots in Nuuanu Valley yesterday morning.

It is rumored that several resignations will be requested among the volunteer companies.

Alani Maka and Kalaukoa, an ex-policeman, were arrested on a charge of conspiracy yesterday.

The Volunteers, who have been stationed at the Lunali Home, will come into town this morning.

Frank Feary, formerly a lieutenant of the Household Guards, is said to be with Lot Lane and his men.

The lot opposite the police station is now used as a paddock. It accommodates a large number of horses.

Nine persons were released yesterday morning. They were caught out on Monday night without passes.

The prisoners at the reef are not allowed to see newspapers, so there must be a great deal of guessing going on.

Three natives were brought in from Kamoullili yesterday. They had no arms when they were apprehended.

The Citizens' Guard is in command of Capt. Frank B. McStocker, and not Captain Murray, as stated in an evening paper.

The thanks of the Sharpshooters are tendered to Mrs. E. O. White for coffee and refreshments furnished Tuesday evening.

T. B. Murray will probably leave for Koolau this morning with a squad of men in search of Lot Lane and his rebel band.

Henry Bertelmann and John Radin, the hack driver, were brought to the Marshal's office from the reef last night to be examined.

"I want no better soldiers than the native men in my company," is the compliment Captain Smith tenders the men of Hawaiian blood in his company.

So far Bush, Crick and Nawahi have not been connected with the Wilcox-Nowlin rebellion. They were going to have a small one on their own account.

Company A wishes it made known that Mrs. Fritz Roland is the lady friend who kindly sent them the flag spoken of in yesterday's ADVERTISER.

Companies A, B and C marched into town at dusk yesterday. They cheered as they passed the Central Union Church and after their arrival at the Barracks.

Marshal Hitchcock stated last night that Captain Davies and George Townsend were not taken out yesterday afternoon to locate arms beyond Moanalua.

A gentleman prominent in Government circles stated last night that "no leniency would be shown the rebels; in each case the punishment will fit the crime."

A dozen tents have been put up on the grounds of the Executive Building for the accommodation of the men of Company D. There is no room for them in the basement of the building, the other companies having returned.

Captain Kidwell sent a letter to President Dole yesterday stating he had heard that one of his superior officers had made statements to the effect that the captain had disobeyed orders. If such was the case he desired an investigation.

The members of Company A wish to thank Mrs. W. C. Wilder for the elaborate lunch prepared for them while back of the Lunali Home. When the boys broke camp yesterday they drew up before the Wilder residence and gave three cheers for the ladies who had been so thoughtful in their behalf.

The gentlemen at the Station House are indebted to Mr. James Steiner for two freezers of ice-cream sent down recently; also to Castle & Cooke, who furnished an oil stove on which many a reviving cup of coffee has been boiled. The case of beer from Schaefer & Co. was by no means the least of the much-appreciated refreshments received from thoughtful friends.

Injured Men Improving.

There is considerable improvement in the condition of the men injured during the past week. Lieutenant Ludwig, of Company F, has left the hospital and is now at home and almost recovered. Holi and Lokana, the two policemen, are able to sit up. Armstrong Smith, of Company B, who was prostrated by over exertion and exposure, has recovered sufficiently to resume his duties. Otto Aass, the mounted patrolman who broke a leg and two ribs by being thrown from a runaway horse, is resting comfortably, but has some little fever yet. Private Albert, of Company F, who was sent to the hospital with a severe case of rheumatism, is able to be up and around. Fugie, the Japanese accidentally shot in the leg by the rebels while at work in George Beckley's Waikiki residence, has left the hospital. E. C. Crandall, of the Citizens' Guard, who was injured at Waiupe by a horse falling upon him, was somewhat better yesterday, but it will be some little time before he can get out.
